Registan Square

Start at the iconic Registan Square, the heart of ancient Samarkand. Explore three magnificent madrassahs: Ulugbek Madrasah (15th century) with its astronomical decorations, Sher-Dor Madrasah with its famous roaring tigers and sun faces, and Tillya-Kori Madrasah with its breathtaking gold-covered interior. Your guide explains Timurid architecture, Islamic geometric patterns, and the square's role as a Silk Road marketplace. Climb minarets for panoramic views (optional). Perfect for photography—the blue domes against clear sky are unforgettable.

Gur-e-Amir Mausoleum

Visit the stunning Gur-e-Amir Mausoleum, the final resting place of Amir Temur (Tamerlane) and his dynasty. Marvel at the massive azure ribbed dome visible across Samarkand, then enter to see the lavish gold interior and jade tombstones. Your guide shares stories of Temur's conquests, his vision for Samarkand, and how this mausoleum inspired the Taj Mahal in India. See the famous "cursed" jade stone that Soviet archaeologists moved in 1941—legend says its removal triggered World War II.

Shah-i-Zinda Necropolis

Explore the breathtaking Shah-i-Zinda ("Living King") necropolis, a sacred pilgrimage site and architectural masterpiece. Climb the 44-step stairway lined with 11 mausoleums (11th-19th centuries), each showcasing the most exquisite turquoise, cobalt, and azure ceramic tiles in Central Asia. Your guide explains the legend of Prophet Muhammad's cousin buried here, the significance of counting steps (legend says the number differs going up vs. down), and the stories behind each mausoleum. The ever-changing light on the tiles creates magical photo opportunities.

PM:

Bibi-Khanyim Mosque

Visit the colossal Bibi-Khanyim Mosque, commissioned by Tamerlane as the grandest mosque in the Islamic world (late 14th century). Walk under the massive 40-meter-high portal and marvel at turquoise domes rising above. Your guide shares the romantic legend of the architect who fell in love with Tamerlane's Chinese wife Bibi-Khanyim, and explains the mosque's controversial 20th-century restoration. See the enormous marble Quran stand in the courtyard—legend says walking around it brings fertility blessings.

Lunch Break

Free time for lunch at local restaurants near Siab Bazaar (own expense). Your guide recommends authentic Uzbek eateries serving plov, shashlik, lagman, manti, samsa. Expect to pay $5-10 USD for a full meal with tea. Vegetarian options available.

Siab Bazaar Cultural Experience

Immerse yourself in local life at the vibrant Siab Bazaar, Samarkand's oldest market operating since medieval times. Wander through sections dedicated to spices (saffron, cumin, dried herbs), fresh produce (pomegranates, melons, grapes), dried fruits and nuts (golden raisins, apricots, almonds), dairy products (fresh yogurt, kurt cheese balls), and the famous bread section where bakers pull hot non (flatbread) from traditional tandyr ovens. Your guide helps you navigate, translate with vendors, and explains local food traditions. Taste fresh bread, sample seasonal fruits, and experience the incredible colors, aromas, and energy of Central Asian market culture. Optional: purchase spices, silk scarves, suzani embroidery, or ceramics as souvenirs.
